Life of Jack Henderson

J. W. Henderson residing west of Spencerville, was found dead on Wednesday evening about five o'clock on the porch. Mr. Henderson had attended Mr. Pomeroy's funeral at Auburn, in company with his son, William of Antwerp, and upon entering his home dropped dead. The coroner was called and found he had died of apoplexy.

"JACK" J. W. HENDERSON

John W. Henderson, son of William and Matilda (Watson) Henderson, was born near his present residence May 2, 1851. He died November 1, 1922, aged 71 years, 5 months and 8 days.

On July 31, 1872 he was united in marriage to Alice V. Nusbam of Harlan, Allen County, Indiana, and moved to this farm near Spencerville, where he has always resided. To this union four sons were born, Charles and George of Spencerville and William of Antwerp, Ohio. One son died in infancy.

Mr. Henderson was well known in this community where he resided, also throughout the county and his sudden death has cast a gloom over a host of friends and acquaintances.

A truly useful and productive life is one that results in the greatest good to the greatest number. His was such a life, a life of sacrifice and labor for the welfare and happiness of others. In prosperity or adversity, success or defeat he was always the same genial big-hearted, Jack Henderson, with a kind word and a warm hand clasp for all. His stability and strength of character have contributed largely to the welfare of the community where he lived, being progressive and public spirited in the largest sense of the word. He ranked as one of DeKalb County's most representative citizens in all political issues and enterprises of social welfare, yet he retained that unassuming genteel attitude toward all, that made him so much respected by his co-workers.

Politically, Mr. Henderson was affiliated with the republican party and in 1892 was elected Trustee of Concord Township and served in this capacity for five years. In 1904 he was elected Recorder of DeKalb County, discharging the duties of his office for four years to the entire satisfaction of his fellow-citizens.

He united with the M. E. Church at Spencerville in 1884 and was an ardent supporter until his death.

He was a member of the Auburn Lodge of the Knights of Pythias No. 191, also a member of the Auburn Commercial Club. His ability to achieve so many worth while things in life may be attributed to that sterling quality of Hoosier blood drawn from sturdy pioneer ancestry.

He received his early education in the district school near his home and at the age of eighteen completed his studies giving his undivided attention to farm work. A few years ago he was one of the prominent factors in bringing about the organization of the Spencerville Old School Reunion and served as its president for several years. He was also one of the patriotic citizens who conceived the idea of an annual Home Coming Picnic in honor of our ex-soldier boys and freely gave the use of his beautiful sugar grove for this purpose. Words fail to express the value of such a life and its influence on the community. Many times he withheld his name from his gifts to charity and donations to worthy causes, but He who said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive" kept record and prospered him more abundantly. The older citizens of the community looked to his wisdom for safe and sane judgment on matters of local interest. New residents soon learned of his valuable council and sought his guidance in business affairs.

He will be missed by the church where he was always present and where for many years he taught in the Sunday School. The school will miss his inspiration and encouragement in all public functions. The town folks will miss his cordial greetings and the school children will feel they have lost a loyal friend. The community at large has lost a great, loving, kind hearted man.

Those left to mourn his departure are his wife, three sons and four grandchildren, Mrs. Ruth Vanziles of California, Mary and Esther Henderson of Spencerville, Richard Henderson of Antwerp, Ohio. One sister, Margaret Jane and a host of relatives and friends.

The funeral was held Saturday morning from the M. E. Church, Rev. Fred Brewster, assisted by Rev. Steffey, officiating. Interment was made in White City Cemetery. Roscoe Walter, director.

When a child of but a few years, she moved with her parents to Ann Arbor, Michigan, where they resided about one year, when they came to DeKalb County, Indiana, locating on the St. Joe river near the old home, where her girlhood years were spent. On February 8, 1846, she was united in marriage to Harmon Lee by Elder James Hadsell. To this union were born eight children, six sons and two daughters, one son dying in infancy, the rest growing to manhood and womanhood on the old farm, where the husband and father died February 19, 1899. CARPENTER KILLED IN CROSSING CRASH

Howard C. Borthwick, 73,
Drove His Auto into Path of Wabash Freight Train at Crossing near St. Joe

A 73-year-old carpenter was fatally injured Monday afternoon when he drove his automobile into the path of a Wabash Railroad freight train at a private farm crossing near the home where he had lived 44 years.

Sheriff Frank E. Carpenter and the DeKalb county coroner, Dr. R. Perry Reynolds of Garrett, said Howard C. Borthwick, Rt. 1, St. Joe, was dead on arrival at the Dr. Bonnell M. Souder hospital in Auburn.

The coroner said Mr. Borthwick died of a basal skull fracture, multiple fractures of the ribs and arms and internal injuries. He was not thrown from the car that was rolled for 80 feet down the railroad right-of-way by the northbound freight.

The body was removed to the Baidinger - Walter funeral home in Spencerville for burial preparations. Funeral rites will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday. James Beck, pastor of the St. Joe Church of Christ where Mr. Borthwick served as an elder and Sunday school teacher for many years, will officiate at the services to be held in the church. The body will be taken to the church at noon Wednesday. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. tonight.

Burial will be in the Knights of Pythias Riverside cemetery at St. Joe.

Sheriff Carpenter said Mr. Borthwick apparently never saw the freight train as he drove his 1936 Chevrolet over the private crossing less than 100 yards from his home. The Borthwick property is one and one-half miles northwest of St. Joe and about one-half mile off County road 56.

The tragic accident occurred about 4:40 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Borthwick told authorities her husband had driven from their home across the tracks to feed 20 chickens they kept in buildings west of the crossing. He had finished feeding the chickens and was headed east back to his home when he drove into the path of the locomotive on the second section of a local Wabash freight, train No. 96.

Train going 40 Miles an Hour

The locomotive struck the car broadside. The engineer, Glenn McNutt, 60, of Peru, and the conductor, Edward Erlenbaugh, also 60 and a resident of Peru, estimated the speed of the train at 40 miles an hour. The Borthwick car was traveling at a slow rate of speed when it started across the tracks. The train crew said they had no time to stop the freight when they saw the car move onto the crossing.

The automobile was demolished. Tools from Mr. Borthwick's carpenter's box were scattered along the railroad right-of-way.

Sheriff Carpenter said the death of the elderly carpenter would not be listed as a traffic fatality since the accident occurred at a private farm crossing.

The Johnson ambulance of Butler took Mr. Borthwick from the scene to the hospital in Auburn where he was pronounced dead. The body was taken to the Johnson funeral home and later transferred to the Baidinger - Walter funeral home.

Mr. Borthwick was born Sept. 11, 1884 in Daleville, N.J., son of the late Menzo W. Borthwick and Emogene Jennings Borthwick.

Mr. Pitet said he swerved his car and drove off the pavement in an effort to avoid a collision, but without avail. The Ford car was knocked about twenty feet and turned over. Take Life Several Times
—Funeral Sunday

A funeral of the late Wm. Olinger, who took his own life at his home in Richland township six miles west of Garrett Friday afternoon, was held at Union church, west of Garrett, Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The Rev. O. B. of St. Mark's Lutheran church, officiated and burial was made in cemetery.

Olinger's rash act was due to indolence over ill health. He was seventy-seven years of age and been suffering from Bright's disease for the last two years. He several times threatened to commit suicide and the family was careful to keep articles away from him which might use to destroy himself. Olinger was in an old house near of the farm home Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock when she observed her husband in the kitchen with a .22 calibre rifle. He was unable to walk, but had reached the room by the use of a chair and a cane. She shouted at him, "Pa, what are you doing with that gun?" He replied, "It won't work." She tried to persuade him to let her have the weapon, but unsuccessfully. Then she told him to go to the barn to call her son, and as they stepped onto the porch they heard Mr. Olinger fall to the ground. He had shot himself in the chest. The family thought there was a shell in the gun and they do not know where Mr. Olinger got the ammunition.

Olinger was born in Stark County, O., Aug. 25, 1858, and had lived in DeKalb county since he was a boy. He lived in Garrett for many years and resided on the farm where he died for the last four years. His first wife was dead and she died forty-seven years ago. He and Anna Eldridge married Feb. 28, 1892. There were four children. Three children from his first marriage survive.
